Batteries for Dollars!

Support your local organization

Help support your local organization by purchasing Panasonic Industrial Batteries. These batteries are not sold in retail stores and are manufactured and packaged for demanding industrial and professional applications. Now you can use the same batteries used by police departments, government entities, Broadway shows, concert tours and many more. Modern electronic devices such as remote controls, toys, games, and gaming systems result in a constant use of alkaline batteries. Now with the Batteries for Dollars fundraising program you will save money, get a longer lasting alkaline battery, and support your local organization.

Performance when it counts! Panasonic Industrials are specially designed to provide users with a power reservoir that enables them to last longer - even under the abuse they're likely to take in industry and professional applications.
